

CLIMATE EMERGENCY

A Tufts Table Dinner

establishing connections, sharing perspectives, discussing significant issues

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 13
6-8PM, CHASE CENTER, CARMICHAEL HALL

JOIN US FOR AN EVENING OF GOOD FOOD AND DISCUSSION, LED BY FLETCHER DEAN RACHEL KYTE AND CIERP

The unprecedented rate of global warming is melting the polar ice caps, raising sea levels, and undermining food and water security for many of the world's peoples. Civil society and youth have called on governments to declare a climate emergency. Such demands are, however, running up against slow and barely perceptible progress. Policy action has been piecemeal and insufficient to steer us away from business-as-usual to a more climate-compatible economy. How can we unlock this logjam? How do we think about the need for systemic shifts along with individual responsibility?

TO REGISTER, GO TO: TUFTSTABLECLIMATE.EVENTBRITE.COM
DINNER IS FREE, SEATING IS LIMITED

SPONSORED BY THE FLETCHER SCHOOL, THE CENTER FOR INTERNATIONAL ENVIRONMENT AND RESOURCE POLICY (CIERP), AND THE BRIDGING DIFFERENCES INITIATIVE OF THE OFFICE OF THE PROVOST