

4 years+

Thank You For Delivering

Because of the necessity of social distancing during the pandemic, many families rely on delivery services to get things they need. We get our meals, groceries, mails and packages delivered. We owe our thanks to people who continue to do this work at an extraordinary time. To appreciate the work they do, we can learn how do they do their jobs.

For starters, we can learn how mail travels from the one house to another?

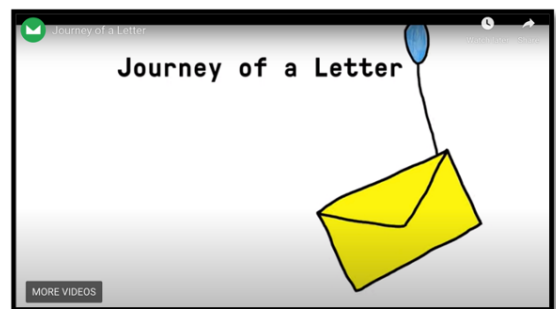

Watch this Video: Journey of a Letter

How does a letter find its way from the home of the sender to the mailbox on the corner, to the post office, and out to the person it is being sent to? London's new Postal Museum shares this story through the Royal Mail system in a short film: Journey of a Letter

<https://thekidshouldseethis.com/post/journey-of-a-letter-how-a-birthday-card-is-sent-and-delivered-in-london>

Activity: Make a "Thank You For Delivering" Note

Be creative! You can use available materials you find at home: paper, cardstock paper, old greeting cards, cut-outs from magazines and catalogs, markers, colored pencils, crayons, tapes, paint, stickers, and crafts.

Shape Card Ideas:

Hearts, flowers, rainbows, cars, animals, geometric shapes, people, etc. Let your imagination fly!

Display your Thank You notes where they can be easily seen and read.

